The Ladies' Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church will meet Saturday afternoon, June 5th, at 3 p. m. at the church.

Eld. F. M. Tindler will fill his regular appointments at the Christian church Sunday and will not go to Minerva to assist in the meeting until about the 20th of June.

Races Postponed.

On account of muddy track the automobile races which were scheduled to take place at the trotting track, Lexington Saturday May 29th have been postponed until Saturday June 5th beginning at 2 p. m.

Methodist Church Services.

Next Sunday June 6, at 9 a. m. will be Sunday School rally day. Every grown up member of the church, respecting the vows of their church are most cordially expected to be present at this service. Statement of special interest will be made at close of this service. Morning subject, 11 a. m. "God's call of the Unanswered." Evening subject—"The coming of the New Earth." Services by Pastor.

The Telephone Neck.

An Illinois newspaper says: "An exchange warns rural ladies to beware of the telephone neck. It is due to long standing at the telephone with the receiver at the left ear, causing an involuntary leaning of the head to one side. It is more noticeable with those living on rural party lines, and surgeons declare the result is liable to be a crooked neck generation in the near future. Of course, no ladies on the 'farmers' lines should here be liable to contract the new disease."

Engagement.

The Interior Journal has the honor this issue of announcing the engagement of Miss Lillie Tevis Carpenter, the charming daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Carpenter, of Stanford, and Rev. Homer Wilson Carpenter, of Cleveland, O. The wedding will occur at the Christian church in Stanford at 8:30 on the evening of June 30th. Miss Carpenter is one of Lincoln county's prettiest and most popular young women and her prospective husband is a prominent minister of the Christian church. Miss Tevis is prominent in social and church circles and she will be missed by a large number of friends, who will give her up with sincere regret.—Interior Journal.

Death Of Mr. George Barkley.

Mrs. T. H. Walker was called to Nicholasville Friday by the death of her brother, Mr. George Barkley. The deceased suffered a paralytic stroke from which he never rallied. He was a brother-in-law of Mayor W. L. Steel and one of the wealthiest farmers of the county, and of a prominent family.

Graded Common Schools.

Citizens of Macon petitioned the County court to permit them to take a vote to levy 25c on each $100 worth of taxable property within 24 miles of said place, for the purpose of establishing and maintaining a Graded Common School at said place. The petition was granted and an election was ordered Saturday July 31st 1909.

An election will be held for the same purpose in Bryanville, on Saturday, July 10th, 1909. If the citizens in those sections knew how such schools enhance the value of property, as in this place, there would not be a vote cast against the schools.

Mrs. W. R. Cook Hostess.

On Monday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock Mrs. W. R. Cook, received a number of friends in honor of her visitors, Mrs. Theodore Wintersmith, of Louisville and Miss Lala Robertson, of Elizabethtown. The ladies in receiving line were Miss Robertson, Mesdames E. P. Halley, R. A. Haynes, L. L. Walker and W. R. Cook.

Frappe was served in the library by Misses Edna and Sue Shelby Mason and delightful refreshments, which carried out so perfectly the color scheme in pink and white, were served in the dining room.

Never before have the ladies of Lancaster been more pleasing to the critics eye. All who have had the pleasure of accepting Mrs. Cook's hospitality know what a perfect hostess she always is, and are delighted at the approach of an event under her artful supervision.

The Second Whirlwind Campaign.

The second "Whirlwind Campaign" for better education in Kentucky has been planned for June 27 July 3, and will be bigger, better and more thorough than the former campaign. It will cover the entire State, both city and county, with special reference to the rural community. The campaign will open Sunday, June 27, when every minister in the State will be asked to deliver an address on "Public Education in Kentucky," from his own pulpit. The regular speakers—one hundred strong—will begin active work on Monday, June 28. In nearly every instance each speaker will cover two counties. His work will be reinforced by local speakers and every community will have an opportunity to participate in the great educational movement which are sweeping over Kentucky.

Complimentary To Judge Saufley.

The following letter was received from Col. W. S. Miller, of Knoxville, Tenn., who lived many years in Lancaster and knows whereof he speaks.

Dear Sir:—Please find enclosed check for $2.00 which I think will cover my subscription to the Record up to May 1910. If this is not correct, kindly let me know.

I learn by the last issue of the Record that Judge Saufley, by a very flattering vote, received the nomination for Judge of the 13th Judicial district of Kentucky, and I hope it may be equivalent to a peaceful and harmonious election, in which event the people of the district will be entitled to congratulations on having as a Judge, a man of unwavering convictions, a man who will never surrender his honest principles for popular favors; a man whose acts are fair, honest, honorable and just; never resorting to deceptive methods, or petty politics in order to curry favor with any faction or clique; and a man above all things whom no person need fear to go before seeking justice; and I can speak from experience when I say that he performs his duties in such a high-toned honorable way, that no man (unless he be a very selfish man, and not satisfied with anything which is contrary to his own interests) can justly accuse of unfair dealing.

It is a credit to any community to elect such a man, and shows that sometimes, and in some places, a man does not have to resort to petty politics to secure his election to office. So long as a man be conscientious in his convictions, he should be entitled to respect.

No one who desires the administration of justice will ever have cause to regret "Mike Saufley's election."

Yours truly,

W. S. Miller.

MOONSHINERS CAUGHT NEAR LANCASTER

On Monday night about eleven o'clock Judge J. A. Hurnside, Deputy Collector, accompanied by J. A. Beazley and L. E. Herron, made a raid on a "Moonshine Still," which was located on the old Devion Smith farm, about 3 miles West of Lancaster, between the new Danville pike and Lexington pike.

The officers captured 2 stills and worn complete, with 200 gallons of beer, 15 gallons of shingles and 10 gallons of whiskey. It is supposed to have been in operation about one month. The worn was brought to town and destroyed. The officers arrested W. L. Moras and Henry Creech whom they found with their sleeves rolled up, at work in their secluded den manufacturing whiskey. Their only light was some lanterns, but the officers claim that the fire used in the operation threw light many yards away. The two men were taken to Danville Tuesday morning to have the examining trial before the United States Commissioner.

Judge Hurnside says it was one of the most perfectly hidden stills he had ever seen. It was being operated in the cellar of the house, once owned by Peyton Smith, that had burned several years ago. They had roofed the cellar nicely, and thrown brush over it in such a way that one would pass it before noticing it, on account of its perfect resemblance to nature. The men under arrest are not natives of Garrard county, and their conduct is unlike that of our citizen-ships.

Lancaster Won Both Games.

Instructive.

The Woman's Club met in the lecture room of the Christian church, Wednesday, May 26. The subject under discussion was Mexico. Mrs. J. A. Royston, the leader, read an interesting paper on Old Mexico, making note of climate, characteristics of her people, her native and foreign rulers, her beautiful cities, art, architecture, and natural resources.

Mrs. E. C. Gaines read a paper on Mexico—the Republic—in which she gave brief review of political history, closing with a beautiful tribute to President Diaz, by Secretary Root.

Miss Della Tindler read a paper on the religions of Mexico—showing that no superstition or heathen worship has had more baneful effect than the iron rule of Catholicism. In conclusion she made an appeal to the Protestant world to go forward and build on the foundation already established there.

The last number was a talk by Miss Edna Mason, giving an account of the five different burials of Cortez.

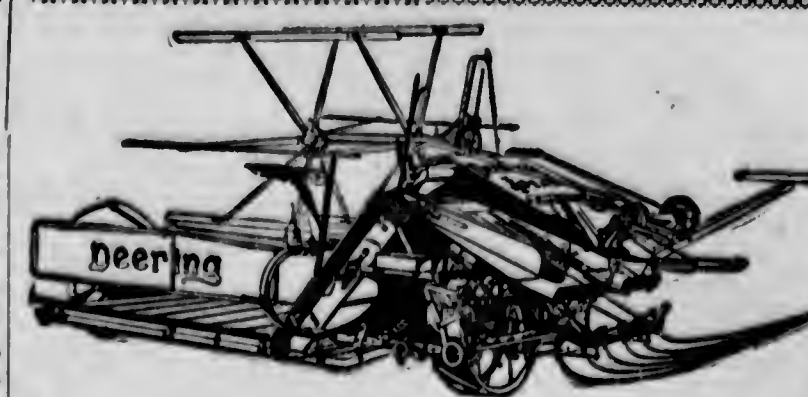

The house adjourned to meet June 9th at Presbyterian church—meeting to be given over entirely to business.

The regular program, on the U. S., will be given June 16 at Christian church, led by Mrs. Kauffman.

Chickens Pay.

There is nothing that will pay as great a percent on money invested as will poultry, if properly cared for. Mrs. J. Wade Walker has sold since January first, beside what was used at her home, 500 dozen eggs for $101. She has at this time 400 chickens, which makes the editor's, as well as the preacher's mouth water.

At press hour we learn that John Duncan, Col., shot and wounded John Mason, colored, Wednesday night.

Judge A. D. Ford.

The Democrats have very appropriately put this sterling gentleman at the head of the county ticket, and the banner will never trail in the dust.

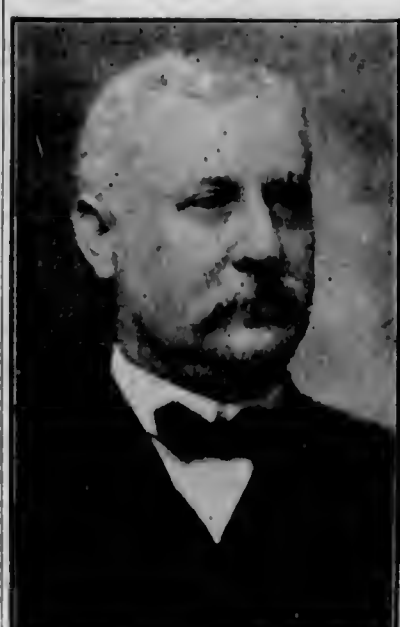

He was born in Garrard county, on September 23rd, 1850. He is a man of fine personal appearance, very intelligent and familiar with the motives and impulses of human action, making him thoroughly equipped for the office of County Judge.

His record, as a Democrat, is straight

Hon. J. E. Robinson.

The subject of this sketch is the Democratic nominee for re-election to the important office of County Attorney, and he has so ably and faithfully discharged the duties, during the present term, that the customary endorsement and election goes without saying.

He was born in Lincoln county, Ky., June 10, 1873; received his early education in Lancaster, graduating at Garrard College in 1891; was in Kentucky University in 1892; was principal and clear of scratches and crosses. His decisions are consistent with justice and equity, free from favoritism and true to the enforcement of the law, and, wherever the law permits his proceedings are favorable to the best interests of the people, whether it be in the construction of better roads or other necessary public improvements.

The free turnpike system, being installed, much extra work was imposed on his department, and it was disposed of in a manner that gives much credit to him and the balance of the Fiscal court. The pikes are kept in good order, new ones have been constructed and automobiles can now run where horsemen could not travel a few years ago, yet, with strict economy, the county debt has been largely diminished, though the rate of taxation has not been increased. His books are open and the public is invited to inspect them and see where every dollar of their money has gone, and, by inspiring of merchants, from whom articles were bought, and learning the price paid laborers and contractors, it will be seen that his official career, for two terms, has been wholly devoid of graft, and that the highest official ability and integrity have been exercised and maintained. His past is a guaranty of his future and his election, by a large majority, over any opposition, is a foregone conclusion.

Elocutionary Contest.

Miss Polly Traylor will give an elocutionary contest at Walton's opera house, Stanford, Ky., June 16, Lancaster will be represented by Miss Lucile Walker Duty.

pai of Harrodsburg Academy in 1893 and Professor of mathematics in Daughter's College 1894. He graduated at the Central University Law School in 1896; located in Lancaster, the same year, and began the practice of law. Being possessed of strong mental powers and the best traits of character, his preparation, in the several schools named, brought him before the public as a man eminently qualified to fill high places of trust, and he was nominated and elected to the office of County Attorney, in 1905. As adviser of the Fiscal court he helped to guard the interests of the people, with the same zeal and care which he exercised in his own personal affairs, in which he has been very successful. He has always opposed the allowance of any claim unless it was just and altogether free from graft. He has done his part in making the financial condition of Garrard county as good as any in the state, while a number of turnpikes have been built and other necessary public improvements have been made.

The able manner in which he has prosecuted criminals, both in the county and circuit court, deserves especial mention. He prepares his case well, finds all the testimony bearing on it, and makes an able and logical appeal for the enforcement of the law. As a result of this service our county is as quiet and peaceable as any in the Commonwealth. Again we assert that the party will endorse him by giving a big majority, for him in November, as well as for the entire Democratic ticket.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

To the Republican party of Garrard county: I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for County Attorney, and will appreciate your support.

This issue was mailed before the Republican county committee met yesterday, and we will have to wait until next issue to give an account of their proceedings, and give the list of untrained horses which they enter into the race to come off next November. In the mean time we are giving illustrated sketches of the Democratic ticket, and will give the entire ticket, those not having cuts in the office being hereby notified to have them made and send them in. It will be seen that our entries are in constant training, that they have a winning record, can run in mud or on any kind of a track, and are nearly at the half mile post now. In view of these facts, it is a mystery why entries should be made handicapped by every theory that oppresses the masses and favors the classes, by an administration that gives liberty to assassins, has a depleted treasury and has lately passed through a panic that rocked and convulsed the country from center to circumference, threatening disorder, financial prostration and ruin. Our entries will distance them. Book makers are backing the Democratic ticket, with great odds.

Harry Summers, in his paper, the Elizabethtown News, tells the truth in the following article. Attempts have been made in this section to mix a local with a party issue, but it will not work: "To make the Democratic party either a prohibition party or an anti-prohibition party in Kentucky is nothing more than for it to commit political suicide. The 'dry' people in the Democratic party have no right to demand that prohibition shall be a part of Democratic faith and neither have the 'wet' people any right to demand that anti-prohibition shall become a part of Democratic faith. As Gov. Beckham says, the Democratic party is older and broader than this question and will outlive it. A Democrat can be a consistent party man and vote either wet or dry just as he can be a Democrat and be either Presbyterian or a Catholic. The Democratic party in Kentucky to secure success must steer clear of both the Anti Saloon League and the liquor organization."

The attempts to revise the present system of taxation in Kentucky should be successful, for it is rotten to the core, retards progress and enterprise, and drives capital from the state. It is estimated that only 10 per cent of the money or personal property is ever listed for taxation, and this throws a greater burden on real property, and then notes and mortgages which are found on the records. Double taxation follows: the man who has paid only half on his farm being taxed on its full value and the man, holding notes or mortgage on it, being required to pay also. The only way to correct this is to require bankers to give a list of deposits, on the first listing day, and to give such other information as they may have in reference to funds that should be listed.

The fact that such men as Senators Daniel, of Virginia, Foster and McEnery, of Louisiana, and Bailey, of Texas, have espoused the cause of high protective tariff, verifies our assertion that greed for office will cause some Democrats to forsake their party because their constituents are interested in some article of commerce which they want protected. Our manufacturers no longer need protection. They sell many articles cheaper abroad than they do at home, and the cry of imposing tariff for revenue is misleading. Let us have free trade and raise revenue by income and direct property and per capita tax, which would cost the people less than the excessive rate they are paying on the necessities of life.

We are not a very ardent admirer of Congressman Langley, of the 10th Kentucky district, but he is right in some things. His bill to prohibit the National government from issuing liquor licenses in dry States or sections ought to be enacted into law. Maine has been "dry" for two generations, by State law, but the government in a measure nullifies its operations by issuing 358 liquor licenses in the State. It is a burning shame—Interior Journal.

The Jessamine News suggests Hon. Bennett H. Young as the best man for the Democrats to nominate for Governor. He would have a strong following, but, as we will need a man, in that race, who has been over that track, and won—a man full of experience in such campaigns, and one that would be sure to win, we beg to nominate Senator James B. McCreary.

Woman Who Are Envid.
Those attractive women who are lovely in face, form, and temper are the envy of many, who might be like them. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation or kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. For all such, Electric Bitters work wonders. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion. Many charming women owe their health and beauty to them. 50c at R. E. McRoberts Im

MEMORIAL DAY

Or McKendree Methodist Church, Hubbs, Ky. A Live Country Church.

"Whv called McKendree Church," was answered in special services Sunday May 23, forenoon and afternoon in service and recital of a notable pioneer history of gospel extension in the Kentucky wilderness a century ago; the address being given by the pastor of that church, D. E. H. Pearce. It was an ideal day with church folk of all denominations from the three adjoining counties of Lincoln, Garrard and Boyle filling the house and shaded grounds of the church in attendance on the services.

There was a beautiful dinner for all between the services and narrative record of the morning and the lesson of its application in the afternoon was received with marked interest.

In addition to the connectional history of a century ago, the fact that the parish territory of the membership of the congregation is in the exact geographical center of Kentucky as officially located, gave added interest to the history and its lessons.

William McKendree, a distinguished pioneer minister of Virginia and Kentucky, and later 1808-1835 a Bishop of the Methodist church in America, was born in Amelia county Virginia 1757, and died at Nashville, Tenn., 1835. At 25 years of age in 1779 he enlisted in the Continental army. Of marked capacity and energy he was soon promoted from the ranks to the General staff of Washington and closed his soldier career with surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown Va., 1781. Profoundly converted a few years later he decided to enter gospel ministry and was ordained 1788. After five years ministry in pastorates of Virginia he is made Superintendent of Missions of the then wilderness county of Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, Illinois and Missouri. A notable leader of men, he gathers to himself co-workers of the same fearless and devoted soul as himself.

Into pathless forests on horseback they come; sometimes as guests in the humble cabin of the lonely settler; sometimes camping at night beneath cliffs or trees and cooking their own food; swimming swollen streams; narrowly escaping again the knife and rifle of the lurking Indian or the frontier desperado; seeking the settlers, one at a time in scattered atodes and collecting them again together to gospel ministry; so the message is served in four or five great states of the Mississippi Valley for fifteen years by McKendree and his co-workers; so from 1793 to 1808 he serves and lays the foundation of the Methodist church in the great West and South and in broad fraternal spirit encourages the fellowship and life of sister churches.

So he is found in camp and in toll in Kentucky in the year 1800 between Dix river and Hanging Fork; out of his labors a society is gathered and a log chapel erected on the present site of the Engleman-Harris farm, six miles West from Danville and six miles West from Lancaster, Ky.

Almost within rifle shot of the Altar of wilderness, which had continued for 20 years; also after migration and death had removed the old pioneers and descendants and the old log church is in dust. In 1887, 22 years ago, and three quarters of a century from the McKendree ministry, the present church is organized to vigorous development and erects the present building on its beautiful and commanding site, which it names "McKendree" as a memorial to the pioneer circuit rider and Bishop of the Kentucky wilderness;—hence the present name.

Out of the old settlers that gathered to the rude forest altar on the Dix river cliffs, came also some of the seed to spring up and continue for years of honored usefulness in the Providence Baptist Church three miles East of Danville; its site recently obliterated and membership removed and merged in the Baptist church of Danville.

For gospel incentive and service, today amid the rush and crush of a hurrying age the lesson of the history as one of the still voices of the past is indeed fairly a story of compelling power.

Daniel Webster in a great creation on Bunker Hill once said, "A people that would not learn lessons from a worthy and heroic past had no future before them worth having." Another has equally well said—that "where history is there God is, so far as truth is concerned."

Another impressive element in the service and memorial of that Sunday was, that as McKendree's pioneer ministry covered four or five states of the Mississippi Valley, so there seemed to come a providential re-gathering in the past 22 years of the present membership of McKendree church, from the same states.

Undoubtedly they seem to have been brought from distant residence in the same states to re-gather, reside and worship at the same Altar erected first by McKendree and named later by the present generation for him. A bit impressive it is that nearly a century after the old log temple of McKendree has vanished from the earth, this return of the scattered tribes comes back to the Altar places of the Old Jerusalem; a peculiar resurrection in its way for a lesson to our modern day to taken anew the (Primal) power of the one far off event of the cross, toward which all creation moves."

The speaker closed with the thought that a century from now another memorial day might come when the present generation would be as well high forgotten as that of the Kentucky wilderness day; but for us and for them of a generation yet unborn, no memorial could be more hallowed for us and them, than the old hymn of our trust to-day

"We are travelling home to God In the way our Fathers tread, They are happy now—and we Soon their happiness shall see."

Practically the entire estate, valued according to Wall street estimates at between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000, will ultimately be divided among the four children and their heirs. The only public bequest is one of $100,000 to the town of Fairhaven, Mass., Mr. Rogers' birthplace, to be used for school purposes.

Just after the Senate adjourned Senator Bailey of Texas, and W. S. Manning, representative of the New York Times, engaged in a fight. There was a reference to Mr. Bailey's characterization of the New York Times' writer as "an infamous liar" and too soon for bystanders to apprehend what it was all about Manning struck Bailey with his umbrella and the two men clinched. They were separated without injury.

Complimentary to Garrard County

Mr. Roy A. Haynes, editor of the Hillsboro Ohio Dispatch, after spending his vacation with his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mason writes the following description of it in his excellent paper. In behalf of Garrard County, Brother Haynes, we raise our hats to you:

"There is probably no more noted agricultural district in the United States than the Blue Grass region of Kentucky. This region has a marvelously diversified range of crop productions. Including all grains grown in this immediate section with the addition of hemp, tobacco and alfalfa.

Ye Editor having just returned from a most delightful sojourn to these parts is filled with most optimistic prophecies for that country. The undulating fields of waving wheat, now fully headed, gives promise of an abundant crop, while hundreds of acres of rich chocolate colored soil are evenly covered with the dark green hemp plant now small and resembling the ragweed, but which will soon reach the height of 12 or 15 feet; when these hemp fields are cut and shocked they will call most vividly to mind the happy and accurate description by John Uri Lloyd an "Indian Camp of Wikwams."

This crop is an unusually profitable one and can only be raised in six or eight counties in the very heart of the "Blue Grass."

Scarcely has such a tremendous crop of tobacco been planted in Ky., as that being planted now in the White Hartley district. The estimated production from the 40 White Hartley Counties is 200,000,000 pounds.

Many farmers realized as much as $300 per acre from their crop last year and as a consequence new lands have been broken, and the landscape is thickly dotted with the white canvass, covering the tobacco beds, and the construction of new barns built to accommodate a 5 to 10 acre crop is being rushed to completion in almost every valley and hillside.

Much of the corn crop is up and has been cultivated once or twice. The white variety is raised almost exclusively and hill land almost too precipitous to allow cultivation, annually yields to the husbandman, not golden but snowy white crops reckoned by the barrel to the sum of fifteen or twenty per acre.

The native fertility of the soil is indeed remarkable, and commercial fertilizer is comparatively an unknown quantity to the Blue Grass farmer. The constantly disintegrating limestone lying just below the surface soil furnishes an inexpensive, highly productive and never failing supply of fertility.

To view a typical Kentucky Blue Grass pasture field unostentatiously dotted with groups of majestic oaks; ideally watered by sparkling brooks with their lime stone beds; circumscribed by boundaries of stone fence, slave built "before the war," populated with the favorite Short Horn export cattle or the South down sheep, luxuriating in the native grass, knee deep: This all constitutes a picture beautiful to behold and has inspired the brush of many an artist. These historic pasture fields are usually large in extent and seldom, if ever broken, resulting in a thick heavy mat of grass seeding themselves year after year.

The landowners as a rule, live on their farms in commodious well-kept homes of Colonial design and in these homes the proverbial hospitality is found in reality even in greater degree than in proverb.

We never cease to be highly entertained and edified by the thrilling narratives, exquisitely and quaintly told by the older people of the experiences during the years of the war. For over the Lexington national road, (and as fine a road bed as was ever constructed) passed thousands of soldiers of both armies and some of the great camps of the war were pitched in this territory. Had the state seceded it would have been the battle ground of the war, and ruined beyond all recognition.

As it is, it is prospering today, as never before and with unrivaled soil, diversified agricultural products, numberless oil and gas wells, magnificent forests of varied species of timber, rich coal mines, and a most hospitable people, it is unique in natural advantages and an ideal spot in which to enjoy a vacation."

More about the Creamery

Years ago, many farms in what is now known as the Elgin Creamery Belt were covered by mortgages. This, however, was before the advent of the creamery. It is now a land truly flows with milk and butter, and is considered by all as one of the most prosperous regions of the world. Milk and butter are the chief products; other things are merely secondary and supplementary to these.

Butter and milk being absolute necessities of life, their market is more stable and reliable than any other product of farm or factory. The maker of good butter goes hand in hand with success.

The average herd in the Elgin belt was from about 20 to 50 head. They are carefully bred and selected, properly housed and fed; and are returning to their owners a golden fortune. As an example: one patron last year averaged $100.00 per head on 31 cows for butter, sold $800.00 worth of hogs, raised from the skimmed milk, saving 11 choice calves to increase his herd, and sold the remainder for veal. This is not an exceptional case, but the general rule. Their feed is clover, hay and ensilage for roughness, with a balanced ration of corn, oats, and bran. Some few use barley and cotton seed meal with success. Parake grass finishes the bill of fare.

What can be done around Elgin can be done around Lancaster. We can raise as good herds as they. We can raise everything necessary to feed them; and in blue-grass, we can go them one better than their parake grass. So with natural advantages for us to let us inject a little Yankee hustle into our blood, and we shall see a new era in Garrard County.

The Creamery will now run continuously and Mr. Currey will make butter that will bring the top Elgin quotation. As many routes will be started as can be made profitable and permanent; and all routes started will be permanent.

Lexington Route, No. 1 is now established and will run regularly from Rufus Moss, 1 mile north of Bryansville to Lancaster. Notice will be given as other routes are established.

I shall take pleasure in making individual test for my patrons, so that they may eliminate their unprofitable cows, and build up a profitable herd. In all things that I may be of service to you, command me. Yours faithfully,

HENLEY V. BASTIN.

Much excitement was caused last Thursday morning when it was learned that the meat house of J. W. Scott had been entered and meat stolen. Mulligans and his blood hounds were ordered from Lexington. The thieves were traced to the pike but it seemed there it was loaded into a wagon. A falling shower also prevented further trail.

Had Something of a Sinecure.

As far back as the reign of Queen Elizabeth there was a crown official, known as the "uncorker of ocean bottles," whose duty it was to open all sealed bottles cast up by the sea and examine the contents. The official "uncorker" continued to flourish down to the reign of George III, when the position was abolished.

When Pa Shingled.

When I was but a little chap—oh, many years ago—
I well recall the day because it was a day of woe;
Pa he had shingled of his house, with some to spare, he thought,
But when he came to finish off he found that he was short.
"My boy," said he quite harsh to me, "do you know where they be?"
At that I wouldn't tell him then for fear he'd take me.

My pa, enraged, demanded why I hid them from him at all.
"Because," said I, with teeth and sighs and trembling from fright,
"I didn't want none left around for fear they'd come to play 'mean any day for use in speakin' me."

My pa he didn't say a word, but cut a paddle out.
An' filled it—I won't say where—a hundred times about.
I well recall the day and all, though distant it may be,
Cuz when pa shingled of his house he also shingled me.

When Forth You Fare.

When forth you fare to pick a flower,
Beware not the thimble whole!
Though roses fair have odors rare,
They have thorns, too, old folks!
When forth you fare to quench your thirst,
Beware not the waters from the spring;
Though truly wine may seem divine,
It never leaves behind a sting!

When forth you fare in search of love,<
Beware not the modest little maid;
The siren's lure can never endure,
And misery repays blind!

A Pilgrim.

As onward o'er life's tortuous road
I plod my way and bear my load
Let me attempt, let me aspire,
To gain some goal of high desire!

By no false glamour on my mind
Let my adventurous feet be led,
But golden, though at times they tire,
To gain some goal of high desire!

Until for me the final end
Outrides my pilgrim path upon.
Still be my aim, till light expire,
To gain some goal of high desire!

The Big Head

Is of two kinds—concent and the big head that comes from a sick headache. Does your head ever feel like a gourd and your brain feel loose and sore? You can cure it in no time by acting on your liver with Ballard's Herculine. Isn't it worth trying for the absolute and certain relief you'll get? R. E. McRoberts.

Gossip is Necessary.

Gossip responds to a human need, and gossip about dead men cannot hurt them. It clearly shows the stuff that reputations below a certain grade are made of. Many of the smaller glories owe their longevity to the inconsiderateness of the survivors. For who can afford to be painstaking about such trifles?—Frank Moore Colby.

Medicine: Art of correctly curing.

If a man were cured of a cruel malady by remedies of old women or charlatans, all the vials of the faculty's indignation should fall on his head.—Charles Narrey.

NASAL CATARRH.

R. E. McRoberts sells the Great Remedy that Cures Mrs. Karberg.

Here is a very simple yet wholly sincere statement of a Michigan woman, who was cured by using Hyomel—the cure no pay remedy for catarrh, asthma, hay fever, croup, coughs and colds.

"I had case of catarrh was cured for me by the use of Hyomel. The trouble affected my head, nose and eyes, and was very annoying and disagreeable, and the cure, from the use of Hyomel, was very gratifying. Hyomel has from me a strong recommendation and endorsement!"—Mrs. E. Karberg, 213 Kingsley St., Ann Arbor, Mich., 10, 1908.

"Thousands of just such letters are in existence, and thousands more would be but the desire to avoid publicity.

If you have catarrh, bestir yourself, and drive it out of your system. Kill the germs. You can do that easily if you use Hyomel (pronounced High-o-mel).

It is a dry, antiseptic and very pleasant air, that when inhaled, quickly relieves all forms of catarrhal inflammation, stops sneezing, hawking and blowing. The price for a complete outfit, including inhaler, is only $1.00 at R. E. McRoberts.

Worth a Thought

Why do the Tin Plate Mills, the Metal Rolling Mills, the Shingle Mills, Lumber Yards and all large factories use Swan Brand? Because they know that Swan Brand is the best and cheapest for their purpose. Why do they not use their own manufacture? Simply because they know that Swan Brand will last longer, cheaper in price and less expensive to lay. While for price and samples, W. W. WITHERS, 220 E. Main St. Lexington, Ky.
